

GUATEMALA, 2021

Photo by Oliver Pablo Gonzalez

IsraAID partnered with UNICEF to bring child protection activities to communities affected by Storm Eta and Hurricane Iota. Thousands of people were displaced following the storms' torrential rainfall that caused heavy flooding and dozens of landslides and mudflows.

ETHIOPIA, 2021

Photo provided by IsraAID

Civil conflict has raged in the Ethiopian region of Tigray since November 2020, leaving millions of children and adults in need of humanitarian aid. IsraAID formed a coalition with Israeli organizations Nala and CultivAID to bring urgent relief to communities affected by the violence.

INDIA, 2021

Photo by Sameer Kangutkar

In 2021, India was hit by a catastrophic second wave of COVID-19 infections. IsraAID partnered with Gabriel Project Mumbai, a local, community-based organization, to bring urgently needed medical supplies, nurses, protective equipment, and food packages, to communities in rural Palghar, where government hospitals serve a population of over 4 million people.

YAZIDI REFUGEE CAMP, GREECE, 2016

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

A Yazidi refugee child with a chronic illness receives physiotherapy from IsraAID's medical team. The Yazidis are a minority group of northern Iraq who have been particularly targeted by the terrorist organization, ISIS.

COLOMBIA, 2017

Photo by Eyal Yassky-Weis

IsraAID's emergency response team in Mocoa following the dramatic mudslides, which left 43,000 people without access to electricity or running water.

MOZAMBIQUE, 2021

Photo provided by IsraAID

In January 2021, central Mozambique was hit by Cyclone Eloise. Heavy rains brought major flooding, and entire communities were displaced and had to be resettled. Displaced children were left without access to school. IsraAID's team stepped in, operating a daily Child Friendly Space in the community, with informal education, activities, and a hot meal.

NEW YORK, USA, 2012

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

Voni Glick, IsraAID's co-CEO, comforts a resident following Hurricane Sandy. IsraAID's emergency response team assisted in debris removal in the State of New York following the superstorm that left 8.5 million people without power.

DOMINICA, 2021

Photo by Zaimis Olmos

In 2021, IsraAID brought leading Israeli technology solutions to its humanitarian missions around the world as part of the IsraAID-Pears Program Pilot Fund. Pictured are a student and IsraAID team member in Dominica, who took part in a pilot program with Plethora, which uses gamification to teach students the foundations of Computational Thinking.

GREECE, 2015

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

Dr. Tali Shaltiel, part of IsraAID's emergency medical team, provides treatment to refugees arriving on the shores of Lesbos. Since the 2011 outbreak of the civil war in Syria, more than 5.6 million people have fled the country and over 6 million have been internally displaced.

NEPAL, 2016

Photo by Ben Dagani

A woman collects her beehive as part of IsraAID's HoneyAID beekeeping program. HoneyAID empowers local women and provides income generation opportunities in earthquake-affected Nepal villages.

NEPAL, 2015

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

IsraAID's Search and Rescue Team digs through the wreckage following the devastating earthquake in Nepal. This team successfully rescued Krishna Devi, the last living survivor, a full five days after the earthquake struck. The 7.8 magnitude earthquake and its aftershocks destroyed or damaged 882,000 houses and over 30,000 classrooms.

PUERTO RICO, 2017

Photo by Lior Sperandeo

Moran Neumann, IsraAID's water expert, teaches residents in Puerto Rico how to use and install water filters. Hurricane Maria left 50% of its residents without access to safe drinking water.

GREECE, 2015

Photo by Boaz Arad

Just one of the thousands of boats of Middle Eastern refugees arriving on the Greek shores. IsraAID provides emergency medical treatment and mental health support to the new arrivals.

GREECE, 2015

Photo by Martin Divisek

IsraAID's Dr. Iris Adler provides medical care for Middle Eastern refugees arriving on boats to Lesbos, Greece. Over one million refugees and migrants fled to Europe by sea in 2015.

TEXAS, USA, 2017

Photo by Elise Apap

IsraAID volunteers Meital and Yakira remove debris at Mike's house, a resident affected by Category 4 Hurricane Harvey. Harvey was the wettest tropical cyclone on record in the United States, flooding hundreds of thousands of homes and displacing more than 30,000 people.

NEPAL, 2015

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

The 2015 earthquake devastated rural communities in Nepal. IsraAID's medical team worked closely with national authorities to treat patients in hard-to-reach areas.

MOLDOVA, 2022

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

With freezing temperatures at the Moldovan-Ukrainian border, thermal blankets, hats, and other winter weather items are crucial. IsraAID's team provides immediate aid to Ukrainian refugees at the border when they arrive in Moldova—and longer-term support in emergency shelters around the country.

MOLDOVA, 2022

Photo by Mickey Noam-Alon

IsraAID & Early Starters International have partnered with a local municipality near the Ukrainian border to create a safe space for Ukrainian children fleeing war, with daily activities run by child development specialists and trained local volunteers. Amid the chaos, this space provides a rare opportunity: the chance for kids to “just be kids”—and begin to process their experiences.