

09.01.2024: Threads of Memory

This piece, dedicated to the victims of those killed in captivity, portrays a woman taking ribbons from her hair—once symbols of care and life—and laying them down. The gesture is quiet, but full of meaning. Something has been broken. Something has changed.

Works like this one are my way of mourning. A way of saying: we saw them. We carry them. We remember.